PRE-OPERATIVE BLOOD TESTING:

Complications during and following sedation/anesthesia used during medical/surgical procedures can possibly be avoided if the doctor is aware of any underlying ailments such as anemia, infection, kidney malfunction, or liver disorders. These problems may not be evident on physical exam. Because these conditions can be detrimental to your pet's health, we highly recommend that all animals undergoing sedation/anesthesia have pre-operative blood testing. In addition, these results will serve as reference values should your pet become ill. The price of the test is not quoted in the price of surgery.
